Note

The Academic Year 2022-2023 Student Guide of the BA Program in the Archeology, History, and Literature of Ancient Greece (BAAG) of the School of Philosophy of the National and Kapodistrian University (NKUA) of Athens is a short practical guide intended for our students. It describes the administrative structure and infrastructure that support the educational and research work of the Program. Finally, it provides essential information on all aspects of the student journey, and it will be particularly useful to our freshmen. The website of the "BA Program in the Archaeology, History, and Literature of Ancient Greece" (<https://baag.uoa.gr/>) completes this guide and analyzes many of its points.

We warmly welcome our freshmen and wish all our students health, progress, and high goals throughout their years of study. Happy Academic Year!

The School, past and present

The School of Philosophy was one of the first four Schools of the University of Athens, which was founded under the name "Ottonian University", along with Theology, Law and Medicine.

The founding decree of 1836 mentions it as "School of general sciences", but the corrective decree of 1837 as "School of Philosophy" and the Provisional Regulation published in the same Government Gazette as "School of philosophy and the other circular of education". Sciences of Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics, Natural History and Botany were also included, apart from the disciplines of Philosophy, History and Literature. The provisional regulation raises the question of whether the Faculty of Philosophy should be divided into Departments, or an independent School of Physics and Mathematics be established, and the matter be referred to a special committee. The decision for the School's split was finally taken in 1904, when the School of Physics and Mathematics was founded, which later evolved into the School of Sciences.

The School of Philosophy started operating with 15 professors (10 in Philosophy and 5 in Physics and Mathematics) and 18 students. Indicative of the importance of the humanities studies for that time is the fact that studies lasted for three years, however, both students of the other three faculties and the students of Philosophy who opted for sciences, were obliged to attend an additional year of courses in Philosophy, History and Literature.

The School was initially housed in the Cleanthes House in Plaka (now the Athens University History Museum), then in the central University building and later in the buildings of Solonos ("Building of Theoretical Sciences", where the Law School is currently housed), Ippokratous and Arachovis street. During the academic year 1987-1988, it was relocated to the building of Zografou campus.

The 13 Faculties of the School provide teaching for approximately 31.000 students, some of whom are graduates working towards a postgraduate diploma or a doctorate. The staff consists of approximately 300 academic staff members (professors, associate and assistant professors and lecturers), 70 research-assisting members (laboratory staff), and 150 administrative staff members.

Detailed information can be found on the official website of each department.

Program Regulations

Program Structure

The academic year begins on September 1st of each year and ends on August 31st of the following year. Each academic year is divided into two academic terms or semesters. All courses are semester-long and include:

- Lectures
- Seminars

- On-site field trips and hands-on tutorials

The completion of the program requires the attendance of a total of 32 courses over eight (1-8) semesters. Fall semesters are odd-numbered (1,3,5,7) and spring semesters are even-numbered (2,4,6,8). The courses are divided into two categories: (a) mandatory and (b) elective. Students must successfully complete all mandatory courses, while elective courses include four seminars that will be selected from a list that may change every year.

Several courses may additionally require tutorial instruction, field trips to museums and archaeological sites, accompanied by on-site instruction and participation in archaeological excavations directed by the teaching staff in the subject of Archaeology. Information on discontinued or prospective course offerings is updated as needed at the end of the spring semester of each academic year. The updates apply as of the following academic year, to:

- The titles of the mandatory and elective courses offered each academic year, along with the instructors' names
- The number of hours per week for each course
- The number of credits assigned to each course
- Any other relevant modification of the curriculum

Each course, lecture, or seminar is three contact hours long per week, over a 13-week-semester, and is assigned a number of credits.

Enrollment

Personal details provided by students at enrollment are kept in NKUA's secure, student Information System and are handled according to the General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679. We ensure that the data is accessed only by authorized individuals and not disclosed to any third parties without students' consent unless obliged to do so by law. First-year students should visit the Registrar's Office and produce their non-Greek passport/national ID. Subsequently, they should obtain their digital university credentials to acquire the NKUA's authenticated student identity. Using their credentials, students are allowed to log into all NKUA's online resources, including the Program's e-classes, and access their personal online records. Through the latter (<https://my-uni.uoa.gr>), students may register for courses, view their exam grades, their due fees, program's surveys etc.

GDPR- General Data Protection Regulation

Since 25.5.2018 the General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679, also known as GDPR, is being implemented, which strengthens the framework for the protection of data subjects with regard to the processing of personal data in the European Union. NKUA with respect to personal data complies with the GDPR in the context of its activity and scope and takes the respective technical and organizational measures for the effective protection of personal data, in accordance with the GDPR. None is accepted to apply for this Program unless they agree to the use of their personal information for the purpose of processing their application, according to the Personal Data Protection Policy 3 (https://en.uoa.gr/about_us/personal_data_protection_policy/) applicable at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (if under the age of 18, they need to confirm that their parent or legal guardian also agrees to the use of their personal information for this purpose).

Course Registration

Course online registration takes place during the first two weeks of each semester. Students typically register for 4 courses per semester, a total of 30 credits (ECTS) for semesters 1 to 6, and a total of 34 credits (ECTS) for semesters 7 and 8. The typical workload for a full-time student corresponds to 22-35 instruction hours per week (tutorials and field trips included). Students may register per semester for one or two courses in addition to their regular course load in case they have not completed these courses successfully when they first attended them. Each semester's Ancient Greek course (Greek I to VI) is a prerequisite for next semester's Ancient Greek course, meaning that students should have successfully completed Greek I, II, III, IV, V before they can register for II, III, IV, V, VI respectively. In any case, the maximum number of courses a student may register for cannot exceed 6 per semester. Students are not allowed to participate in exams or earn credits for courses for which they have not registered. Registration for courses taught in odd-numbered semesters is offered in fall, and for courses in even-numbered semesters is offered in spring.

Class attendance

In the beginning of each semester, the instructors provide the syllabus for each course, designate office hours, and communicate their grading policy and course requirements. Topics to be covered have to match closely the approved courses to be offered in the particular year. Lecture attendance is obligatory as is attendance in seminars; more than three (3) absences without justification result in automatic failure in the entire course. Absences are recorded and students facing extenuating circumstances are requested to complete a relevant form for absence from classes to be excused, providing verification for any documented reason, e.g., illness, injury, jury duty, life-threatening illness or death in the immediate family. To successfully complete a course, students must have fulfilled all the course requirements, which may include midterm exams, short essays or other assignments, and a final exam.

Course grading

Each course's final grade is calculated by the instructor on the basis of each student's performance in all course requirements (midterm exams, essays or other 4 assignments), and the final exam. The grading policy as well as the calculation method for the final course grade is announced by the instructor at the beginning of each semester and is an essential part of the syllabus. The final grades are expressed in numbers from one (1) to ten (10), to one decimal point. A grade greater or equal to five (5) is required for successful completion of the course. Grades are uploaded onto the students' personal records within thirty (30) days from the final exam.

Plagiarism

The use of ideas, concepts, words, pictures etc. without appropriately acknowledging the source in order to pass them off as our own, is plagiarism. Quoting and paraphrasing is not plagiarism as long as the sources are correctly cited. Plagiarism of any kind is considered academic dishonesty/fraud, and it is not acceptable; offenders are subject to academic censure and sanctions accordingly. NKUA uses plagiarism detection software (Turnitin) to uncover potential plagiarism and to deter students from plagiarizing. Students who are notified about alleged plagiarism, are encouraged to seek advice and support from their Academic Advisor. In case of suspected plagiarism, the final decision is made by the course instructor.

Examination

In each academic year, there are three examination periods: the first in January, for all courses of the fall semester; the second in June, for all courses of the spring semester; and the third resit period in September, intended for students who have failed or have not participated in the previous exam periods of the academic year. The exact dates for the examination periods are noted in the academic calendar, and the exam schedule is announced on the program's website some weeks earlier.

If a student fails to pass one or more courses after the completion of the September resit period, they are required to register again and take anew the exam for that course(s) in the following academic year except for Ancient Greek language courses (Greek I- VI), as mentioned above.

Failure in more than three (3) courses in a single semester after the completion of the September examination period requires registration and repetition of the entire semester in the following year (the fall or the spring semester, respectively). Students who fail one or more courses in the fall semester may still attend the courses of the following spring semester except for the courses in Ancient Greek language.

Duration of Studies

The maximum period of study in the Program is the prescribed period of four academic years plus two years.

Credit Transfer

At any time, Program students may be provided with a Transcript of Records for all courses they have attended, for any lawful use.

Degree Requirements

The BA is conferred upon successful completion of all the following requirements:

Enrollment Residence Requirement: Regular course registration and attendance by presence for at least 8 semesters.

Mandatory Course Requirement: Successful completion (final grade ≥ 5) of all required courses, for a total of 248 credit units (ECTS).

Elective Course Requirement: Successful completion (final grade ≥ 5) of two seminars.

Further details about the Program Regulations are to be found on the Program website:

https://baag.uoa.gr/the_program/regulations/

Mobility

NKUA collaborates with Universities, Research Centers, international networks of universities, as well as educational organizations worldwide, with the aim of enhancing research collaborations and the mobility of students, academic staff, researchers and other human resources. It should be noted that the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens has participated in the European educational program ERASMUS+ since 1987. Since the beginning of the program, more than 6,000 students of European universities from 38 countries have studied at the University of Athens, while around 14,500 students of NKUA have moved to European Institutions for studies and internships as well. Also, 802 NKUA professors have taken advantage of mobility opportunities to universities abroad, which are provided by the program.

Another decisive move of the Foundation is its participation in the collaborating effort to create a "European Civic University" (2019), i.e., a network of eight collaborating major European universities with the aim of promoting European values and increasing student mobility across Europe.

Erasmus+

Erasmus+ is the EU funding program for education, training, youth, and sport 2021-2027. Erasmus+ combines previous funding programs in the sector, including the Lifelong Learning Program (Comenius, Leonardo, Erasmus, Grundtvig and Transversal Programs), Youth in Action and five international cooperation programs (Erasmus Mundus, Tempus, Alfa, Edulink, and the program for cooperation with industrialized countries).

CIVIS

CIVIS is a European Civic University formed by the alliance of 10 leading research higher education institutions across Europe: Aix-Marseille Université, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, University of Bucharest, Université libre de Bruxelles, Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Sapienza Università di Roma, Stockholm University, Eberhard Karls Universität Tübingen, University of Glasgow, and the Paris Lodron University of Salzburg.

The Senate of NKUA, in the meeting of 28/1/2019, decided the participation of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens in the European University Cooperation for the Citizens of Europe under the name "CIVIS" and approved the proclamation of its goals.

Among the goals of this alliance, which will gather the potential of approximately 470,000 students and 68,000 staff members of the participating Universities, are:

- Implementing a strong, integrated, and legitimate governance and administrative structure
- Increasing student mobility between partner universities
- Strengthening quality assurance and facilitating the recognition of qualifications and periods of study, to increase compatibility between our education systems to make it easier for students to move within Europe.
- Supporting multilingualism and multiculturalism
- Establishing and deepening European partnerships and partnerships with the Mediterranean area and Africa in the fields of research, education, and innovation (as the Mediterranean area and Africa will be at the core of the global strategy of the CIVIS alliance).

- Reinforcing existing research links between universities through interdisciplinarity, shared research infrastructures and incentive funding for joint projects.
- Reinforcing innovative pedagogies
- Reinforcing the idea of making educational resources open and accessible to all in line with Open Science and Open Educational Resources frames.
- Working with associated partners, both local and European, who will support the actions of the Alliance and participate in the development of new initiatives.
- Developing research and innovative projects in response to local, regional and global challenges.

Student mobility agreements between BAAG and other universities worldwide

Every year, along with regular students, BAAG welcomes students from partner Universities who join BAAG for a year-long/ semester-long study abroad program, under bilateral agreements between NKUA and foreign institutions. This year BAAG will host students from three partner Universities.

Southwest University (SWU), Chongqing, P.R. China

Under the 4-year (2021-2025) "ACTIVITY AGREEMENT between the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece and the Southwest University, P.R. China for the admission of SWU students to the BA Program in the Archaeology, History, and Literature of Ancient Greece", SWU students will spend an academic year of their undergraduate studies with BAAG. This year will count towards their degree at SWU.

Southwest University (SWU) was founded in July 2005, after the merging of Southwest Normal University and Southwest Agricultural University, with a history of over 100 years. It is one of the universities belonging to the "211 Project" receiving support as regards their development, by the Central Government of China. SWU is in Chongqing City, which is the central city of the Development Centre of West China.

University of Cincinnati, (UC), Ohio, U.S.A

Under the 5-year (2021–2026) Institutional Collaboration Agreement (ICA) between the University of Cincinnati (UC) and NKUA and the "ACTIVITY AGREEMENT between the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece and the University of Cincinnati (UC), Ohio, U.S.A. for the admission of UC students to the BA Program in the Archaeology, History, and Literature of Ancient Greece" of equal duration, the two Institutions agree to the admission of UC students in order for them to spend one academic year of their undergraduate studies at NKUA. This year will count towards their degree at UC.

The University of Cincinnati (UC) is a public research university in Cincinnati, Ohio, USA. Founded in 1819, it is the oldest higher education institution in Cincinnati and has an annual enrollment of over 44,000 students, making it the second largest university in Ohio.

Northwest Normal University (NWNNU), Lanzhou, Gansu Province, P. R. China

Under the 5-year (2021–2026) “AGREEMENT for Joint Undergraduate Study Program, between National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece and Northwest Normal University, P.R. China” an entire class of students of the undergraduate program Top-notch Talents Training Plan on Silk Road Civilization (TTTP)–NWNNU, enrolled as students of the 3rd year of their studies at NWNNU, will attend the Spring 2023 Semester at NKUA as students of BAAG.

Northwest Normal University (NWNNU) is a major university co-founded by Gansu County Regional Administration and the Ministry of Education of the People's Republic of China. It is also one of the 14 public regional universities in West China. It constitutes the evolution of the National Beijing Normal University that comes from the Normal School of the Metropolitan University founded in 1902. Under the bilateral agreement, each academic year, NWNNU students spend one year studying at BAAG, which is recognized by their university for their degree.

Scholarships 2022-2023

One (1) new and three (3) continuing undergraduate excellence scholarships for the 2022-2023 academic year, each amounting to 10,000 euros, were announced by the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens to foreign students who wish to study in the "BA program in Archeology, History, and Literature of Ancient Greece" of the School of Philosophy of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, and meet the criteria, as described on the program website.

Academic Advisor

The academic advisor gives guidance and support to the students throughout their studies. The Steering Committee of the Foreign Language Undergraduate Program (HSPS) assigns the duties of the study advisor on an annual basis and for a period of four years. The role of the academic advisor is taken over by faculty members of all grades of the School of Philosophy. Those faculty members who have a tenure of at least four (4) years are selected as academic advisors for the guidance of new foreign students. Academic advisors supervise the students they oversee, from the beginning till the end of their studies. Through their work, the academic advisors contribute significantly to the success of the students' studies. The secretariat of the Foreign Language Undergraduate Programs informs the students about the faculty member who has been appointed to act as an advisor, for all the years of their studies.

Assignment of Students to Academic Advisors

The distribution of students to academic advisors is as follows: a faculty member is assigned the role of academic advisor from the student's academic year till the end of their course after the period of four (4) years. Students are informed of the name of their academic advisor upon enrollment in the Secretariat and they should contact him / her as soon as possible. The first meeting of the academic advisor and a student must take place during the first month of study. In case of the advisor's absence on educational or other leave, the respective file and his / her advisory duties are temporarily assigned to his / her substitute or any other faculty member. If the academic advisor does not fulfill his / her duties as he/she has to, the students he / she has undertaken, can request his/her replacement providing a reasoned request to the Committee. The academic advisor meets each student at least two (2) times during each semester as follows: a) at the beginning of the semester and before the course registration process, b) at the end of the semester and after the issuance of the exam results, which the student must notify to the academic advisor. The academic advisor advises the student accordingly, without his / her suggestions being mandatory. The work of the academic advisor is to guide and support the foreign students in their program of studies but also in any personal problems related to their studies, as well as to demonstrate the best way to achieve their individual goals at each level of their studies.

Also, the academic advisor can call the student in case this is requested by a member of the Program, who notices that a student experiences academic setbacks reflected in a number of ways such as continuous absences, systematic poor performance, unjustified dropout courses, etc. In the advanced years of study, the academic advisor will help the student to form the best possible perception of his / her professional life, his / her subsequent studies, etc.

Course Descriptions

1st Semester

COURSE SUMMARY	ECTS
75101 Introduction to the Discipline of Archaeology	8
This course provides an introduction to the basics of Archaeology. It starts with a short history of the discipline, from the emergence of curiosity about the past in the Renaissance to the constitution of Archaeology in the 19th century and the important milestones regarding its theory, methods and techniques in the 20th century. In addition, the course examines a series of key-concepts, such as the “archaeological site”, the “archaeological record” and the “archaeological context”. It also reviews the main types and methods of fieldwork and laboratory analysis and discusses the different types of research questions that guide the study and interpretation of the material remains of past people with the aim of understanding their social life.
75102 Introduction to Historical Studies	8
The aim of this course is to familiarize the students with the basic concepts of historical studies (time, space, historical event, structures, institutions). The course also focuses on the various kinds of sources on Ancient History and on the methodology regarding their use. Finally, the course provides an overview of the main perspectives of studying Ancient History (interstate relations, politics and institutions, society and economy, culture and ethnicity).
75103 Ancient Greek Literature: An Overview	8
The main objective of this introductory course to ancient Greek Literature is for students to become exposed to, and familiar with, key genres of ancient Greek Literature through a selection of the most representative works and authors from every genre (such as Homer, Hesiod, Herodotus, Sophocles, Plato, Callimachus). In this introductory course students also engage in close reading of particular texts (in translation) and engaging with previous scholarship, in order to further develop their critical thought when reading Greek Literature.
75104 Greek I (Greek for Beginners I)	6
A course of ancient Greek for beginners! Students will learn the alphabet, basic vocabulary and grammar and syntax rules before practicing reading simple texts in classical Attic Greek.
TOTAL ECTS	30

COURSE SUMMARY	ECTS
75201 Aegean Civilizations: a survey	8
This course comprises a comprehensive introduction to the prehistoric archaeology of the Aegean from the beginning of the 7th to the end of the 2nd millennium BC. It reviews the social and cultural evolution in Mainland Greece, Crete and the Cycladic islands from the first farming communities of the Neolithic period to the complex societies of the Minoan and Mycenaean palaces of the Middle and Late Bronze Age.
75202 Ancient Greek Art: an overview	8
From the Trojan War and its aftermath in the 12th century BC, to the onset of Alexander's campaign in the late 4th, this course explores Ancient Greece through its art and archaeology: sculpture, pottery and vase-painting, architecture and city-planning are systematically assessed through carefully chosen examples and case studies in order to provide an informative survey of Greek Art and its development during its most crucial phase. The course also offers a discussion of sources and methodology, matters of chronology, informative accounts on techniques, styles, and subject matter, and terminology.
75203 The History of the Greek Polis	8
The course examines the significance of the polis for the Greeks, its origins (linguistic background, the literary and epigraphic evidence, the Archaeological remains), the city as a result of Synoecism, what was a polis, the lifespan of the Greek city, process of urbanization versus process of state formation, the rule of law and the Greek city, exceptional cases; Athens and Sparta, the denial of political development: tyranny and tyrants in the Archaic period, as well as the spread of the Greek model of polis through Colonization. It also sketches developments from the Archaic to the end of the Classical period and goes through the most significant historical events: the formation of the Peloponnesian League, Cleisthenes and his reforms, 5th and 4th century BC wars with the Persian Empire, the 1st and the 2nd Athenian Leagues, the role of Sparta and Thebes, the efforts for Peace and the rise of the kingdom of Macedonia under Philip II.
75204 Greek II (Greek for Beginners II)	6
The course builds on GREEK I and continues with the instruction of the ancient Greek language and, more specifically, of the Attic dialect. The main goal of the course is to teach students grammatical phenomena, syntactic structures, and the basic vocabulary of the Attic dialect. Additionally, first-year students are instructed on the methodology of approaching a text written in ancient Greek. In this sense, the course offers the students of Classical antiquity knowledge and skills necessary to approach the primary sources. By the end of the term, the students will be able to read simple, slightly adapted texts. In addition, through the selection of specific texts, the course aims to acquaint students with institutions, ideas, mentalities, and historical events of classical Athens. Finally, the aim of the course is to explain the etymology of English words from ancient Greek through special exercises, in order to offer a deeper understanding and more correct use of these words in English.

TOTAL ECTS	30

3rd Semester

75301 Prehistoric Crete: Minoan Palatial Society	8
The course examines all periods of the development of Minoan culture. Special emphasis is placed upon the development of architecture (palaces, settlements, tombs, shrines) and arts and crafts (pottery, stonework, ivory, faience, frescoes etc.) from the Stone Age to the end of the Bronze Age.
75302 Ancient Greek Topography and Architecture	8
From Athens and Sparta to the Hellenistic Kingdoms of Macedonia, Ptolemaic Egypt, and Seleucid Syria, Greek architects created ambitious structures in order to house religious, political, and social activities: temples and palaces, gymnasia, stadiums, and theatres, as well as houses and tombs, offer to the modern scholar a valuable glimpse into the society they once served. The course undertakes a systematic survey of Greek sites and monuments, from the 8th to the 1st c. BC, in order to establish the main developments in architecture and city planning, as well as their impact on Greek culture.
75303 Greek Historical Texts: Thucydides	8
The leading learning outcome of the course is the students' introduction to the genre of Greek historiography through the study of the work of the leading representative of the genre, the Athenian historian Thucydides, both in the original and in English translation. Secondly, through the study of the text, the students will receive a thorough introduction to the history of Classical Athens, the rise of Athens to Panhellenic leadership in the decades after the Persian wars, and, subsequently, the catalytic contribution of the Peloponnesian war to the decline and the fall of the city. The students will learn to translate the original Greek with the assistance of their dictionary and discuss various aspects of Thucydides' prose (grammar and syntax, structure, language and style, society and politics, interaction with other literary genres, such as tragedy, etc.).

75304 Greek III (Intermediate Greek I)	6
The course is the third part in a six-part course series which offers systematic instruction of the ancient Greek language, specifically of the Attic dialect. It is the natural follow-up to the Greek II course, which is taught in the spring semester of the first year. The main goal of the course is to introduce grammatical phenomena, syntactic structures and basic vocabulary of the Attic dialect, and enable the students to understand a simple text in the Greek original. The students, further, will receive instruction on the methodology of translating and analyzing a text written in ancient Greek, and the knowledge and skills to assess properly the primary Greek sources. In addition, through the selection of specific texts, the course will acquaint students with institutions, ideas, mentalities and historical events of classical Athens. Finally, the aim of the course is to explain the etymology of English words from ancient Greek through special exercises, in order to offer a deeper understanding and more correct use of these words in English.
TOTAL ECTS	30

4th Semester

75401 Archaeology of the Mycenaean World	8
This course is a detailed introduction to the emergence, growth and collapse of the Mycenaean civilization, which appeared in Mainland Greece and the Aegean during the Late Bronze Age, or the second half of the 2nd millennium BC. It focuses on the topography of major sites and their material culture, including the citadels and palaces, the basic tomb types and the various arts and crafts, such as pottery, frescoes and metal work, ivory, seals and jewelry. Such a review of Mycenaean material culture aims to illuminate the structure and function of Late Bronze Age society in mainland Greece and the Aegean, including its economic and cultural connections with the east and central Mediterranean.
75402 Greek Art: Images and Meanings	8
This course explores the methods for approaching, analyzing and contextualizing Greek art especially during the Archaic and Classical era (7th – 4th century BC). Through carefully chosen examples and case studies it demonstrates how to 'read' and interpret the subject matter and narrative of ancient Greek artifacts and how to reconstruct the context for which they were made, distributed, used and/or re-used, and even destroyed or discarded - in some cases. The course explores a variety of media, including sculpture, pottery, painting, terracotta, and metalwork. It also provides important background study of Greek myths based on their visual representations and their literary narrations, particularly in epic and tragedy. Moreover, it addresses broader cultural questions by touching upon topics such as identity, gender, and relationships to surrounding cultures.

75403 Studying Greek History through Inscriptions	8
The course will be an extended introduction to Greek inscriptions engraved on stone or metal and their importance for Ancient Greek history. These are documents of various types, which shed light on different aspects of public and private life: decrees of cities, leagues or associations, edicts and letters of kings and emperors, treaties, arbitrations, land-leases, donations, manumissions, honorary and funerary inscriptions, dedications, defixiones etc. They will be examined as pieces of evidence not only for Ancient Greek political, social and economic history but also for the history of institutions, religion and beliefs. The analysis of these texts will also examine issues related to historical topography and prosopography.
75404 Greek IV (Intermediate Greek II)	6
The course follows upon the course entitled 'Greek III', which is taught in the winter semester of the second year. The main objective of the present course is to proceed with the systematic teaching of the ancient Greek language. The participants of the course will study a select passage in every class, and they will become familiar with further grammatical phenomena, syntactic structures and a wider vocabulary of the Attic dialect.
TOTAL ECTS	30

5th Semester

COURSE SUMMARY	ECTS
75501 Greece and the Eastern Mediterranean	8
This course offers an overview of the history and archaeology of the Near East from the late 3rd to the early 1st mil. B.C. An emphasis is given to Anatolia (Hittite empire, Phrygia, Lydia), the Levant (Canaanite archaeology, Late Hittite, Aramaic, Philistine, Phoenician and Israelite kingdoms, the Assyrian expansion) and Egypt (Middle and New Kingdom). A special discussion will follow about the Egyptian and Hittite texts which refer to the Aegean (Ahhiyawa, Keftiu, Tanaja)

75502 History of ancient Greek religion	8
This course is an introduction to ancient Greek religion and cult from the Dark Ages to the Hellenistic times by investigating relevant literary and epigraphical accounts, as well as many archaeological correlates, i.e., sacred places, cult implements and visual/artistic imagery. Special attention will be given to Athens and to the PanHellenic sanctuaries which will be used as main case studies. Other examples will demonstrate different religious contexts and discuss the similarities and differences between individual, polis, regional and PanHellenic aspects of religion.
75503 Greek Drama: Texts and Images	8
The main objective of this course is for students to become familiar with Ancient Greek Drama through the study of works by the three great tragic poets (Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides), and by representative authors of Greek Comedy. The students will focus on set-texts, parts of which will be read in the original. Through this close study, they will be able to understand the social, religious, and cultural context that encouraged the development of drama in classical Athens. A significant part of the course will be dedicated to the history of dramatic performances from antiquity, according to extant evidence and images on vases from the wider Greek-speaking world. The course will be supplemented with audio-visual evidence from performances of Ancient Drama in the 20th and the 21st centuries, and with educational visits to relevant archaeological sites and contemporary performances.
75504 Greek V (Advanced Greek I)	6
The main objective of the present course is to complete the systematic teaching of new points of grammar and syntax in ancient Greek, and for the students to become familiar with the study and understanding of original passages of Greek prose. The course follows upon the course entitled 'Greek IV, which is taught in the spring semester of the third year.

COURSE SUMMARY	ECTS
75601 Hellenistic Art	8
The course examines all periods of the development of Minoan culture. Special emphasis is placed upon the development of architecture (palaces, settlements, tombs, shrines) and arts and crafts (pottery, stonework, ivory, faience, frescoes etc.) from the Stone Age to the end of the Bronze Age.

75602 Alexander to Kleopatra: History of the Hellenistic period	8
This course is designed as an overview of the Ancient Greek world during the Hellenistic period. It begins with the death of Alexander the Great and ends with the battle of Actium and the death of Cleopatra VII (323-30 BCE). In between, we will examine the wars of succession and follow the political, social and cultural developments among the major Hellenistic Kingdoms and the Hellenistic cities. A major aim of this course is the connection of the various primary sources (literary, inscriptions, papyri, and coins) with history, as well as the familiarization of students with the extraction of information from these sources and with their evaluation.
75603 Greek Historical Texts: Herodotus	8
The course is the main introductory course to the field of ancient Greek historiography. The main goal of the course is to acquaint students with the language of Herodotus, the main topics of his historiographical prose, and the most important research issues in the field of Herodotean studies. The course will cover the first book of the Histories; the particular book is selected on account of its programmatic function for the entire Herodotean work. A second important aim of the course is the in-depth study of the methodology and the basic principles of literary analysis and interpretation of ancient historiographical texts. In this sense, the course aspires to offer foundational knowledge that is required for developing further the methodology of approaching and understanding a demanding text.
75604 Greek VI (Advanced Greek II)	6
The main objective of this course is for students to become familiar with the study and understanding of Greek verse. It follows upon the course titled 'Greek V', which is taught in the winter semester of the fourth year.
TOTAL ECTS	30

7th Semester

COURSE SUMMARY	ECTS
75701 Greek Athletics and the History of Sport	8
Recreational sports and important athletic competitions were as popular and significant in the ancient Greek world as they are today, therefore they offer a good introduction to many aspects of Greek culture over the centuries. This course examines a variety of sports practiced by the ancient Greeks, focusing on the archaeological, artistic, and literary evidence. Topics to be explored are the development of Greek athletics, the sites where competitions were held, the nature of individual and group events, as well as the social and religious implications such as athletic professionalism, women and athletics, the role of sport in Greek education etc., and the comparison of these with the modern appreciation of sports.

75702 Homer and Greek Mythology	8
The course sets out to study in detail the function of myth in the context of human experience in Greek antiquity. Lectures build on information extracted from primary sources (the literary texts themselves); selected works from a variety of literary genres will be explored in translation, while particular emphasis will be paid to the poems of Hesiod and the Homeric Odyssey, the latter of which will be studied in its entirety.
75703 Reading Greek Papyri	8
The course aims to offer an introduction to the study of Greek texts written on papyrus and other writing materials, such as ostraca, fabrics, and wooden tablets from the Hellenistic to the early Arabic period, and to teach the methodology of reading and editing papyri with the help of new technologies and digital tools. In addition, the course aims to familiarize the students with the basic styles of Greek writing, regarding both book hands and cursive, during the aforementioned period. By the end of the semester, the students will be acquainted with various aspects of the Eastern Mediterranean world of this period as they emerge from the study of papyri: Literature, language, institutions, history, economics, religion, science, law, everyday life of people etc. Additional goals of the course include the introduction to the scholarship of the discipline of Greek Papyrology and the acquisition of substantial knowledge required for a better understanding of the papyrus texts within their historical and literary contexts.

75801 Greece and Rome: a historical survey	8
This course examines the early confrontation between Greek cities of Southern Italy and Rome, Rome's involvement in the Illyrian wars, Rome's alliances with Greek cities and confederacies, the three Macedonian wars, the declaration of the freedom of the Greeks by Flamininus, the Antiochic war and the peace of Apamea. The establishment of Rome in mainland Greece from the 2nd century B.C., the relations of cities of Asia Minor and Rome, as well as Rome and the Attalid kingdom will be studied using literary sources such as Polybius and Appian, a selection of Greek inscriptions, namely treaties between Rome and a number of cities, and the numismatic output of Greek cities produced to finance the Roman army. The impact of the Mithridatic wars and the Roman civil wars ending at the very end of this period, on the Greek world will be presented with newly published epigraphic evidence.

75802 Greek Philosophy: Plato and Aristotle	8
The leading learning objective of the course is to offer an in-depth approach of Ancient Greek Philosophy through the study of the work of the two leading Classical Greek philosophers, Plato and Aristotle, whose work has forged western philosophy. Following an introduction to ancient Greek philosophical thought, the class, focusing on the theories of the two great philosophers, will examine selective passages from both authors. These passages will be studied in the original Greek language, and they will be drawn from Plato's Phaedrus and Republic, and from Aristotle's On the Soul and Nicomachean Ethics. By the end of the course the students will be able to comfortably translate the Greek original and identify principal meanings of the core philosophical vocabulary. They will be able, further, to analyze the philosophical ideas in each passage, and set them in a wider philosophical and cultural context.
75803 Ancient Greeks at War: Xenophon	8
The leading learning outcome of the course is the students' introduction to the study of the work of the leading representative of 4th century historiography, the Athenian historian Xenophon, both in the original and in English translation. Secondly, the course will focus on those works of Xenophon that discuss in particular the most important political and military events at the turn of the 5th and the beginning of the 4th century, that led to the decline of the polis-state, and the fall of the Athenian hegemony (Hellenica, Anabasis). The students will learn to translate the original Greek with the assistance of their dictionary and discuss various aspects of Xenophon's prose (grammar and syntax, structure, language and style, society and politics, the influence of Thucydides etc.).
75804 Undergraduate Seminar *	10
TOTAL ECTS	34

*SEMINARS

A number of seminars are available every semester; topics may include

1. Funerary Practices and the Archaeology of Ancestors

This course examines the funerary practices in Greece, from the proto-historic period to late antiquity (3rd c AD) in a diachronic and comparative perspective. Grave typology, placing the dead, burial offerings, grave marking, burial ritual remains, funerary iconography, funerary legislation are some of the topics examined, with special reference to case studies from Attica, Crete, Macedonia and the Peloponnese.

2. Topography of ancient Macedonia

This course examines the topography of Macedonia in antiquity, from the Early Iron Age until the Roman era. Stress will be laid on the cities of the Macedonian Kingdom, as well as the Greek colonies and the local (Thracian) settlements situated within the modern territory of Macedonia, Greece. This will be achieved through the available archaeological, the literary and the epigraphic evidence. Moreover, visits to selected archaeological sites will be a significant part of the course.

3. Household and social structure in Prehistory

A seminar on the archaeology of the house and household in Prehistoric Greece: the main architectural types of houses and their development, the place of houses in urban town planning in the Middle and Late Bronze Age, the functions of their space, and the importance of households in social evolution. Emphasis is placed on the appearance of the first “megara” (a type of long house) in relation to the first signs of social hierarchy during the Neolithic, the Minoan palaces and villas as homes to exceptional social groups and the central place of “megara” in the design of Mycenaean palaces. The seminar offers a complete survey of the archaeological record, as well as of the main interpretative approaches to the social dimension of Prehistoric houses in Greece.

4. Household Archaeology: The Classical World

A seminar on the archaeology of the Greek household: architectural types and their development, topography and main examples, functions and uses, habitual patterns and decoration, household behaviours and their ideological parameters. The seminar offers a complete survey of the archaeological record, an investigation of ancient written documents on houses and life in the household, as well as recent breakthroughs in research.

5. Greek Colonisation (Case study: Greeks in the Black Sea)

This course examines the (second) Greek colonization (8th-4th c. BC), especially in the Black Sea, by approaching issues like: who were the main reasons for colonization, who were the most active colonizers among the Greeks, how did they influence the indigenous populations and how were they influenced by them. Furthermore, the most significant Greek colonies in the Black Sea will be examined, through literary, epigraphic and archaeological evidence.

6. The Greek polis under Roman rule

The seminar will focus on the examination of primary historical sources (literary, epigraphic, legal sources) for the institutions, the political organization and the developments in the society of the Greek polis under Roman rule. The following issues will be addressed: a) The role of the Council and the Popular Assembly in the civic life of Greek poleis under Roman rule b) The various magistracies in the Greek cities c) The significance of gymnasia (neoi, gerousia), professional and religious associations d) The significance of euergetism and the award of honours. e) The award of Roman citizenship and the integration of civic elites in the administrative and social hierarchy of the Roman Empire. f) the relations between the Greek cities and the Roman authorities (provincial governors and emperors)

7. Private associations and gymnasia associations in the ancient Greek cities

A particularly interesting aspect of the Greek polis is the numerous private associations (neighbourhood associations, religious, professional or family ones, etc.), as well as the associations centered on the gymnasium (such as the associations of neoi and the gerousiai attested in several Greek cities). These collectives possess a formal internal organization and administrative apparatus, and they are engaged in a variety of activities that give them public visibility. The aim of this seminar is to study both the internal organization of these collective groups (in relation to their internal rules, their administrative hierarchy, their financial assets and the social and gender identity of their members) as well as their public presence and interaction with the official civic institutions. The precise themes of each session and of the students' assignments will be co-defined by the participant's interests.

8. Greek Numismatics, Monetary Policies, and the Economy

The aim of the course is to introduce students to numismatics and their contribution to Greek history. The seminar will examine the invention of coinage in Lydia, its spread in the Greek world, the different values of a coin, the relation of coinage to legislation, the role of issuing authorities and their different types, numismatic iconography and its relation to the religious and legendary background of the issuing authority, weight standards and the reasons for their adoption and sometime change from one to another, significant changes between the Classical and the Hellenistic periods. The seminar will also describe what is numismatic/ monetary policy, as well as coinage and the economy of the Greek polis.

9. Greek Literature of the Hellenistic and the Imperial Period

The seminar is part of a series of specialized, advanced elective courses offered to the students in their final semester of undergraduate program. The students will choose one of the seminars on offer. This is an advanced Greek Literature seminar which explores the two later eras of Greek Literature, Hellenistic Literature and Imperial Literature. The two eras spread across a period of nearly eight centuries, from the late fourth century BCE to the fourth century. CE (and even later for some critics). The leading learning goal of this seminar is to offer an in-depth exploration of the rich literary production of the Hellenistic and Imperial periods, examining texts of poetry and prose alike, including historiography, philosophical prose, and scholarly prose. Additionally, the students will be instructed how to work independently on special research topics drawn from the subjects analyzed in the course and compose substantial research papers.

10. The Reception of Homeric Epic in the Roman Epic Tradition

The goal of this seminar is for the student to gain an appreciation for the Roman epic tradition and its relationship to the Homeric epics, through reading of representative Latin epic poems. The seminar will focus primarily on heroic epic poetry, though it will address historical epics as well. The appreciation of the creativity with which the Latin epic masters received Homeric epic and the continuity of the ancient epic tradition will illustrate the deep influence these poems have had on Western Literature. In the course of the semester, we will cover and discuss selections from Homer's Iliad and Odyssey, and in their entirety Vergil's Aeneid, Ovid's Metamorphoses and Lucan's Civil War, and possibly some other works. All texts will be studied in modern English translations.

11. The Age of Augustus

This seminar will examine the way in which the Age of Augustus (31 BC - AD 14), a period of profound political and cultural change that permanently altered the course of Roman history, is received in the Latin literary tradition across genres. The literary sources from the period abound and they offer a comprehensive understanding of the history, politics, ideology and religion of the Augustan era. A detailed study of these sources will illustrate the various ways in which Augustus sought to repair and redirect a society fragmented by years of civil war -- and the way his initiatives were received by the intellectual elite of the era. The readings will include Augustus' own Res Gestae, selections from the works of Vergil, Ovid, Horace, the Roman Elegists, and Livy; several contemporary inscriptions including the Laudatio Turiae, and Suetonius's biography of Augustus (Vita Augusti).

ACADEMIC ID

All Greece's Higher Education Institutions students are entitled to obtain the academic ID upon online application. The online platform for getting an academic ID is provided by the Ministry of Education, Lifelong Learning and Religions with the technical support of the National Research and Technology Network (GRNET) on <http://paso.minedu.gov.gr>. The academic ID card is a strong, flexible card with anti-fraud protection. In addition, it is designed to be valid for as long as the student maintains the student status. Students can collect their ID cards at designated delivery points; each student can select the delivery point which is more convenient to him/her during the submission of his/her application, without any financial burden. The academic ID card is also distributed as a digital copy by downloading a PKPASS file for Android and Apple.

Academic ID card holders are entitled to discount fare products provided by the public transport organization OASA SA. To use their entitlement, students must issue a personalized ATH.ENA CARD by applying online through OASA's platform on <https://www.oasa.gr/en/tickets/products/ath-ena-card/>

ELECTRONIC CLASS (e-class)

The Electronic Classroom (<https://eclass.uoa.gr/>) is an integrated electronic course management system and supports the asynchronous distance learning service at the University of Athens. The service is accessed using a simple web browser and does not require specialized technical knowledge. The integration of supportive e-learning methods in the learning process at the University of Athens supports and enhances teaching and access to knowledge, providing combinations of new methods to complement traditional teaching. In this way, learners choose their own time frame for communication and access to educational content. Furthermore, it supports the digital organization and distribution of the courses' educational material, as well as a multitude of means of communication between the teacher and the students, ensuring the smooth and uninterrupted conduct of the course.

Library of the School of Philosophy

Following the decision of the Rector's Council in 2005, the Library of the School of Philosophy was created under the coordination of which until recently (30/9/2018) 16 libraries operated. The brand-new building of the Library of the School of Philosophy was put into use in October 2018. 16 smaller libraries were relocated into a modern space of 7,500 sq.m. next to the School of Philosophy, with a joined-up catalog of their material, and in January 2019 was opened to the public.

School of Philosophy Restaurant

The restaurant at the School of Philosophy serves students attending classes on campus. The opening hours of the restaurants are: daily from 12:00 to 16:00 and from 18:00 to 21:00. The opening hours of the restaurants during weekends are from 13:00 to 20:00. The menu includes the appetizer and two options for the main course. The meal plan (lunch-dinner) is posted in the restaurants at the beginning of each week. The company that undertakes the operation of the restaurants complies with both the European standards and the operating conditions set by the University. The University appoints regular or extraordinary audit committees, at regular intervals, to determine the cleanliness, quantity and quality of the portions, etc. The audits carried out by the University are independent of the audits carried out by the competent state services (Market Law, Health Service, etc.). In order to further ensure the quality of the services provided, there is also specialized staff that performs similar checks on a daily basis. More specifically for the service of the students of the Program, information is provided at the beginning of each academic year by the Secretariat of the Program.

NKUA Cultural Clubs

For the entertainment and the development of the artistic identity of the students, the Cultural Club of Students operates, which includes the Music, Theatrical, Dance, Cinema, and the Photographic Sector. The Students' Cultural Club aims to support and promote the artistic activities of the students of the University of Athens. It is a "place" of collective expression and creation. There, students can participate in various cultural events and discover their artistic inclinations and skills.
