

Covid-19 update:

According to the Ministerial Decision 115744/Z1/4.9.2020 (Government gazette No. 3707-04-09-2020), the latest Covid-19 measures applied require that the University undergraduate theoretical courses of up to 50 students are held on campus. Classes with more than 50 enrolled students will be taught online in order to avoid overcrowding.

Regarding thus our 'BA program in the Archaeology, History, and Literature of Ancient Greece', with a total of less than 50 first-year-students, we have secured large classrooms and amphitheatres, while wearing a face mask is obligatory all the time everywhere in the School, with restrictions also applying on the number of people that may enter the elevators simultaneously.

Further, the School Restaurant distributes packed hot meals which should be consumed outside the Restaurant lounge within two hours, while strict protocols of cleaning and disinfection are also in use throughout the School.

Thus, nothing has been left to chance so that we can guarantee the health of our students and staff. Finally, as the Greek State is monitoring the situation on every day basis, further measures may be introduced if required. Our University complies with all of the necessary measures released by the Greek Government and will keep you informed of the applicable regulations concerning the epidemic.
